

ScopeOut 2007

An Astronomy Fair

Saturday, September 22, 2007
Noon - 10:30pm

Teachers,

Are you looking for fresh science lesson ideas? Have you spent your summer wondering how you were going to get in that astronomy content this year? Have you always wanted to see the sun - up close and personal? How about the stars? Do you have some questions you'd love to have answered by a real astronomer? Are you just not sure about something and you need to get it straight before you teach your science class this year? Come to the Cincinnati Observatory Center Astronomy Fair! You can be entered in a drawing to have an astronomer come talk to your class for free!

Not just for adults - this is a great event for kids, too! Invite your students and their families!
